Heyyo district has of recent received many people especially of the Asian origin. They have acquired large chunks of land from the local people and established there settlements. The local people are however worried about the increasing number of these new comers. The elders relate them with the white colonialists who were once here and had far reaching negative effects on the people of East Africa. They have asked for a meeting with the Local Council V Chairperson to express their worries hoping to hear from him how these new comers are of any benefit to the district. The local people trust your confidence and believe you can talk on their behalf and yet the LCV chairperson also wants you to explain to the local people how new comers are of benefit to the district. You can ably represent both groups in the meeting

Since 1962, Uganda has had many constitutional reviews with the last one done in 1995. Since 2005, some amendments have been done with the last one made 2020 which removed age limits for presidential candidates. All these have been done so Ugandans can realize democracy and the rule of law. However, Many Ugandans have left the duty of making these changes to a few people especially members of parliament that they later criticize for any mistakes done. These Ugandans have failed to know that they have a role to play in this process. There's need to educate them using any media house that can be accessed.

You have been invited on a local television station

Task; Write an essay you will use to educate the above Ugandans.

ITEM 4

While on a local radio program 'tell me about Uganda' the LCV chairperson said life has become easy for Ugandans. He said Ugandans no longer travel long distances to make communications to their relatives, they can easily make friends on social media like what's up, face book, twitter, and instagram. Traders in Uganda easily order for goods and sell goods on phone without making travels. He concluded his communication by appreciating Ugandans for making a good choice of leaders and requested them to vote those leaders again in 2026 so they continue to ease life. When the station caller numbers were opened, many callers expressed their anger about how this 'easing of life' has led to loss of African cultural values, promoted laziness and overdependence among other issues. They said they have failed to see any good side of this so called development-'easing of life'. These people need to be educated about this and you can do it.

Task; write an essay you will use to educate them.
